The Middle Georgia Regional Commission (MGRC) is currently developing updates to the Regional Plan, a 20-year planning document that will identify regional issues and opportunities, develop goals and objectives, and inform work by the Regional Commission and its member local governments.

MGRC staff will hold these community meetings to receive stakeholder feedback focused on identifying the major challenges and opportunities for Houston County, particularly as related to future development within the county. Both meetings will cover the same information.

These meetings will be open to members of the general public and community stakeholders, including, among others, city and county elected officials and staff.
